Retirement planning

Almost everyone dreams of a retirement without financial worries. To ensure that this doesn't just remain a dream, we all need to contribute to our own retirement savings. And yet we tend to postpone the topic time and time again. But why? Gone are the days when the German government still provided a decent pension. Quite the opposite! The expected retirement pension level will continue to fall. This is in particular why private and, above all, company pension plans are becoming increasingly important.

Occupational disability insurance

»Nothing will happen to me« - that's how many people think when it comes to their health and ability to work. Many take their own health for granted until it suffers its first »blow«. Although statistics show that around one in four employees becomes incapable of working at least once before reaching retirement age, only a few have adequate cover. The importance of this topic makes it necessary to take a closer look at the risk of occupational disability.

How you will be supported:

- financial support from employer is possible (former capital-forming benefit)
- High level of government support with up to 50 % of the contribution through savings achieved in taxes and social insurance fees in the savings phase or the contribution phase.

Your benefits at GROHE:

- No age limits to qualify for coverage
- Exceptional premium structure as a result of collective conditions, terms for which you as a private individual would never qualify
